To accommodate on-going and future VDOT projects that use metric units, The Materials Division has converted the Virginia Test Methods (VTMs) and Materials Manual of Instructions to dual units. This eliminates the need to maintain two sets of documents and follows the pattern that AASHTO has set of using dual units for test procedures and specifications. AASHTO does, however have the primary units in metric and in the Materials documents; the primary units will be in English.

There have been no other changes to these documents and they can be found at:

All metric only versions of the Manual of Instructions and Virginia Test Methods have been removed from the Materials website. Historical editions may be obtained from Central Office Materials if needed.
